

SEPARATION OF CRITICAL DUTIES IN TRANSACTION CYCLES WITHIN THE STATE COURT SYSTEM

The purpose of “separation of duties” is to ensure that no single individual is placed in such a circumstance that (s)he can cause and conceal errors and/or irregularities (or be vulnerable to others doing so), while performing regularly assigned duties. Three fundamental categories of duties must be separated:

1. Custody of assets
2. Authorization of transactions (including authorization to execute a transaction); and
3. Record keeping/accounting/reconciliation.

Critical duties are those duties which must be divided among employees to clearly establish accountability and to reduce opportunities for misuse of funds. Other non-critical duties may also occur in a given transaction cycle, but need not be addressed for the purpose of “separation of duties.”

Achieving a complete division of critical duties depends on the staff available in a court. A court with a small staff may have to allow some overlap of duties. In each instance of overlap, the Court Executive must document in writing a plan providing for an “External Review” of the documents and transactions that relate to that transaction cycle, to be done by an employee who is independent of that transaction cycle. Court Executives should assign Clerks of Court or other designees to conduct monthly “External Reviews,” as local court circumstances may require.

Adequate separation of duties would exist if only one employee performs the set of critical duties for any one category within the three fundamental categories of a transaction cycle. No employee should have control over all three categories of duties for a transaction cycle, either formally or informally.

Following are charts which outline and separate the critical duties in transaction cycles within the State Court financial system.
